

Spoilt for choice

Contemporary and classic kitchen styles with a Scandinavian twist await at Sola Kitchens' stylish Fulham showroom

Report: Jackie Daly

Sola Kitchens is bringing the ethos of simplicity and impeccable design representative of the Scandinavian style to London's vibrant Fulham district, where its new Munster Road showroom offers the best in bespoke Swedish interiors.

The stylish 60sq m venue features six stunning kitchen displays. Aspen is a combination of walnut and white glossy laminate complemented by orange splashbacks, Sletten features painted flat doors (available in 1300 colours), while Fjellen in smoked oak offers contemporary style for modern design lovers. The classic range includes Frillen, a hand-painted Shaker kitchen, Newport, featuring beading around the doors and drawers and teamed in the showroom with an AGA, plus Bolmen, displaying a kitchen island with raised panelled doors and wicker baskets. All the collections are available with your choice of Miele, Gaggenau and AGA appliances, and an array of worktop styles.

As you wander around this delightful showroom, you'll also discover a beautiful dresser with backlit glass, a striking desk in cherrywood and a wardrobe in American Alder, demonstrating the scope of the design service offered by Sola. And if you just want to browse for some small goodies to take home, there's a range of Swedish and Scandinavian accessories to bag, including crockery by Himla, glass by Reijmyre and candleholders from Bengt & Lotta.
